120hr Online TEFL

Cost: R2 799.00

The course offered by the Cape Town TEFL/TESOL Training Institute and TESOLSA is intended as an introduction to the teaching of English as a foreign language. It is designed to develop the basic skills required in teaching, as well as an awareness of English and the potential difficulties faced by those who seek to learn it. Educational, psychological and linguistic theory is reviewed in a theoretical context through written assignments covering methodologies required for teaching TEFL, TEYLt and TBE.

This course consists of 9 modules based on standard international practice. Seven of these modules cover the basic TEFL methodologies needed to gain a solid theoretical grasp of the processes and requirements of an EFL teacher. Each of these modules deals with an important aspect of teaching English as a foreign language. Both linguistic and educational developments relating to recent advances in language learning and teaching methodology are covered. The syllabus is concerned with the practical teaching of functional fluency in English, which can be considered sufficient for real communication in practical, everyday situations. In addition to the basic TEFL theory, introductory modules for TEYLt (teaching English to young learners and teenagers) and TBE (teaching Business English) are included for the furtherance and diversity of your journey as an EFL teacher.

Of the eleven chapters, nine module assignments are required for submission; alongside these assignments there are 'Self-Assessment Tasks' to do throughout the course which do not need to be submitted, but must be completed for your own benefit.

It is advised that you complete the assignments in the order in which they are listed, as information from one chapter may influence your understanding of another. You will have to complete the 7 TEFL modules before you can go on to start the TEYLt and TBE assignments as these last two units rely on information learned in the TEFL component of the course.

Disclaimer:

Although we have made every effort to create an accessible and relevant course for our participants, we must emphasize the point that we strongly recommend doing an in-class TESOL course. There is absolutely no substitute for solid, practical experience in the field of teaching English as a foreign or second language. This course will introduce you to the theory and help you develop the necessary skills, but doing the intricate deed of teaching will help you beyond measure to assimilate and internalise the central concepts. If at all possible, you should get some practical experience in a specialised English-as-a-foreign-language (EFL) school.
